Briefly describe your sense of God's call into mission and service in the Synod through this office:

As we enter a time in which we are attempting to revitalize, re-imagine and re-form I feel called into the conversation to help congregations to find their ways of prospering in God's mission for us on Earth.

Describe your skills and experiences that would be an asset to this office:

Board member on nonprofits in Denver, President and Board Chair of our state professional organization, so I am very familiar with the process of discernment and planning that falls to guiding bodies such as the Synod Council. My training and experience includes knowledge and skills in mediation, collaboration, diversity and change initiatives.
